A close-up photograph of the internal mechanical components of a device, likely a medical ventilator. The image shows a complex arrangement of gears, a large black pulley, and a motor assembly. The components are housed within a white, rectangular enclosure. The gears are made of metal and are connected by a belt. The pulley is also made of metal and is connected to the belt. The motor assembly is located at the top of the enclosure. The overall appearance is clean and professional.

A photograph of a universal toolmaker's microscope. The device features a large, adjustable magnifying lamp with a black flexible gooseneck and a silver-colored body. The lamp is positioned above a worktable. The worktable has a silver-colored base and a black top surface. A flexible gooseneck light source is also visible, extending from the left side of the worktable. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.
